Early Islamic Civilisation

From the seventh to the thirteenth centuries CE, the Islamic Empire controlled vast stretches of Asia, Africa and Europe. Its extraordinary leaders, soldiers, scholars and scientists made the empire one of the most advanced civilisations the world had ever seen. This advanced society built the world's first hospitals, universities and observatories. Meanwhile, Europe, who were in the Dark Ages, were under Viking influence. The story of Islamic civilisation started with the birth of the Prophet Muhammad.

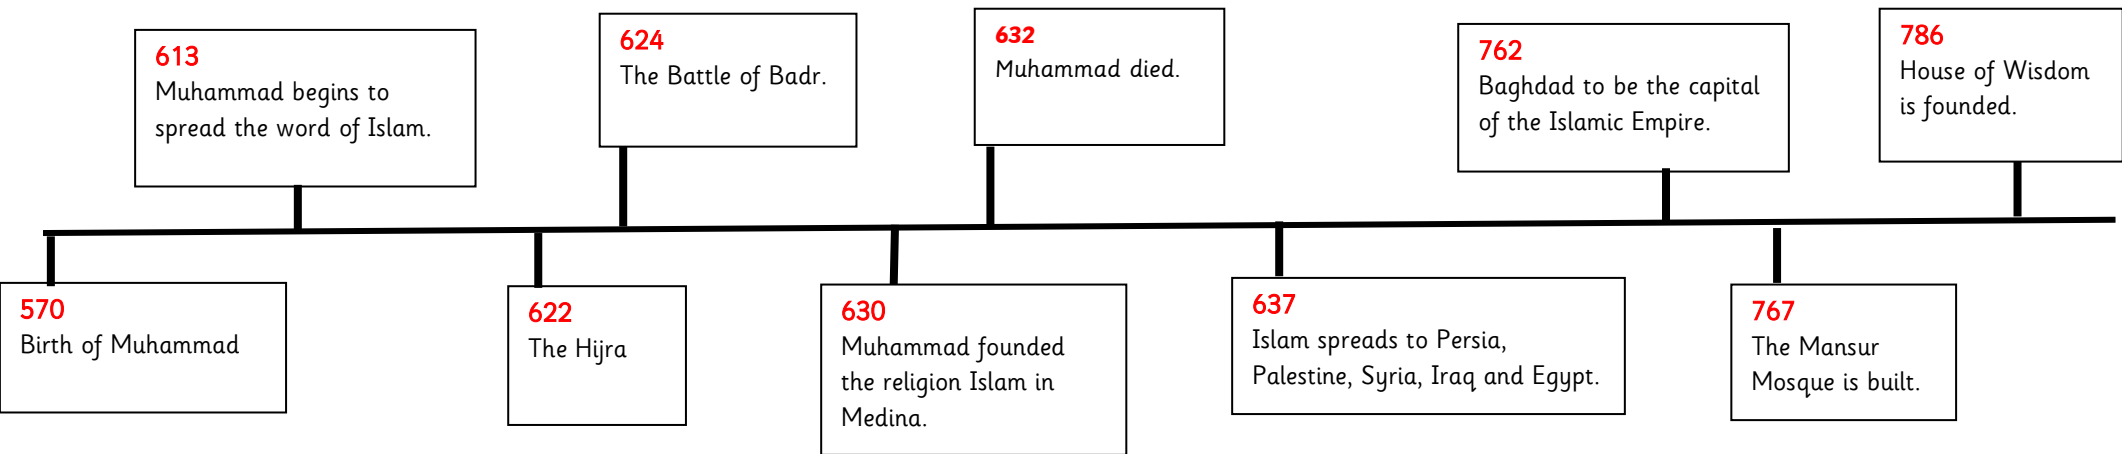

The map below shows the major routes that traders took along the ancient Silk Road.

- What you should already know:
- Muhammad is the prophet of the Islamic religion.
  - Prophet Muhammad was born in the city of Mecca
  - The Quran is the Islamic holy book.
  - Mecca is the holy city of Islam.
  - Muslims consider Mecca to be a sacred place and endeavour to take a pilgrimage to pay homage.

Silk Road

The Silk Road was a vast trade network connecting Southern Europe, East Asia and East Africa via land and sea routes. It earned its name from Chinese silk, a highly valued commodity that merchants transported along these trade networks. The Silk Road was over 9,000 kilometres long.

The Round city of Baghdad

Baghdad was a huge circular city where great advances in mathematics and science were made. The city included beautiful palaces, mosques, gardens, libraries and parks.

House of Wisdom

The House of Wisdom was built primarily as a library. The writings of the Greeks, Romans and Arabs were collected here. Scholars and philosophers, such as Aristotle and Plato, had their ideas translated here.

Aristotle
